The 2008 BRANCO, under the new Lisboa appellation, replacing Estremadura here, is a blend of Arinto, Viosinho and Vital. It is bracing, marked with a certain sour lemon nuance early on. It is pure, with a clean aftertaste, and a relatively rich texture, relatively speaking. I doubt this will age well, but in its youth, it is very nice, with a lot of zing on the finish. It comes around nicely with air and warmth and shows better balance at that time. Drink now-2011.
